Collins dismisses Kavanaugh 2003 Roe email, noting "he was merely stating a fact, which is that three judges on the court" would vote overturn it. "If that is the case, and he was not expressing his view, then I'm not sure what the point of it is."

My views on this are not new, Neera. Democrats took unprecedented step calling for repeal of Hyde in 2016 platform because they thought election was in the bag. It wasn't. And their move(s) left on that issue made it more likely Trump would win, and that so much would be at risk.

No, and neither does Chris, but the thing about elections is that you don't get to choose the priorities of other voters. Dems reached out to voters torn over trade tho it was against the sitting potus' policies. But voters torn over this issue were beneath their interest in 2016

We are two months away from the most consequential midterm in my lifetime. Imagine what Trump will be like if he keeps the House and Senate -- the vindication he will feel. I ask everyone who follows me -even those who hate-follow -to get involved in a campaign starting today.

There is absolutely no meaningful opposition to Trump from the right. The right is Trump's enabler. He's not doing this alone. He's doing this with the full support from nearly the entire Republican Party.

They idea that there is ■ bipartisan coalition against Trump is ■ myth.

Nothing. But that's why we work for the next 65 days to replace them

Edward-Isaac Dovere @IsaacDovere
McCain's funeral is (and was not at all subtly structured to be) a bipartisan rally of America against Trump, attended by much of Congress and many senior members of the White House - so what do those who are sitting for it do in about 2 hours, after all the speeches are over?

Please read and share this article. The antidote to Trump is a movement of people - from All walks of life- who care about all Americans, not just some. And who are not just taking back the country, but taking back politics. And making it good again. Even noble.

Trump has no idea what public service is. Going after the raises of federal workers is just outrageous. Those people serve us. A lot more than he does.

There is a scandal worse than Watergate. Plenty of evidence that Obama and Clinton political machines colluded with higher ups in the FBI to prevent a duly elected president from taking office. But yet the Mainstream Media ignores it. Mueller needs to focus on this.

@BetoORourke is investing his money in field more than ads. Which will help every Dem running in the state, not just Beto. And that's another reason the campaign is bigger than one person

Dave Wasserman @Redistrict
TX could be big for Dems in '18. But the ratio of Beto's $$/chance of winning seems way out of proportion vs. Dem House candidates in Dallas & Houston burbs, who are running w/ much more promising terrain/odds but are getting less national buzz.

I too focus on primary turnout but fact is that rough parity in primary usually great for Dems because a higher percentage of GOP (older voters) vote in their primaries.

> Not a good sign for Democrats in Florida—or nationally—that more Republicans than Democrats voted in Florida primaries today. Re-taking the House requires hard work block- walking flippable districts by anyone who cares about the republic.

I've said this before. A lot of so-called progressives are in fact extreme cynics. They think everyone is equally corrupt. It's how they can paint Democrats and Trump Republicans with the same broad brush. I, for one, find such cynicism tiresome, lazy, and juvenile.

Not only does this headline misrepresent why and when the kneeling takes place, but it also misrepresents Beto to potential voters who, for whatever reason, don't read the article. It also creates a false talking point for Cruz and his surrogates.

Just before posting the above tweet, I opened the link & by chance saw a new @CBSNews post correcting the headline. I decided to post my tweet anyway because:
- First impressions are important.
- There's a good chance that those who've seen the original won't see the correction.

We have 73 days to the election. Every day from now on, I'm going to highlight races because we can all do something to create the blue wave. Today, I hope you'll support @nelsonforsenate in Florida, who is getting massively outspent by Rick Scott.

You're neck and neck with Beto while the R Gov is 15 points up. We can all see you sweat @tedcruz. It's pathetic.

Ted Cruz @tedcruz
Most Texans stand for the flag, but Hollywood liberals are so excited that Beto is siding with NFL players protesting the national anthem that Kevin Bacon just retweeted it. That means all of us us can now win Six Degrees of Kevin Bacon! twitter.com/kevinbacon/sta...

This is what us Texans are posting all over FB.

Cruz, a man that they say is the son of the guy who killed an American President.

Ted Cruz is a Canadian Cuban exiled in Texas. Ted Cruz happens to be a cowardly weasel who won't stand up for his wife and father and certainly won't stand up for Texans. Don Trump Jr. thinks that Canadian, Ted Cruz, is more Texan, than our Texan born, triple meat Whataburger liberal, Beto O'Rourke. To that I say, "MUUAHAHAHAHAHAHHAHAHA!!!!!"

Donald Trump Jr. @Donald... · 57m
I'm pretty sure that platform won't fly in

What is this insanity? The banks and Wall Street are partying with their tax cut. You can't be this disingenuous. Not possible.

> Hugh Hewitt @hughhewitt
> Think of those videos of stadiums/casinos/large buildings being blown up/ brought down in controlled explosions. That's basically @realDonaldTrump and the Beltway-Manhattan superstructure. But no one really thought he'd do it. And the debris is flying everywhere.

If you want an iota of accountability for Trump you have to vote all the GOP out this November.

When Trump goes it's all gone for the GOP. Because the GOP is a shrinking party, social media and foreign funding of Republicans will be as GOP as gerrymandering, voter suppression and fraudulent tallies.

It's a tough race for Beto if he is only up 11 with latinos and down 3 w/ college-edu whites. Hard to win in Texas without the edu white voters.

The Senate race is interesting but I will say again what I've said several times: the House races in Texas are more worth watching!

Texas Senate race, among registered voters

Trump can take the 5th if he feels he'd be confessing to a crime.

People have to testify all the time. Incredible this ▪ even a point of discussion, since the Supremes ruled that even in a civil matter (Clinton v. Jones), the president can't avoid testifying.

Twitter, like the @nytimes, overcorrects its perceived self-bias and we all are subject to the consequences

Brian Stelter @brianstelter
What @Jack ACTUALLY said: "I think we need to constantly show that we are not adding our own bias, which I fully admit is left, is more left-leaning. We need to remove bias from how we act and our policies and our enforcement and our tools." twitter.com/KaitMarieox/st...

New rule - any Dem candidate for president that whines about not getting enough press coverage or about other candidates getting too much coverage, should be immediately eliminated. We cannot be a party of whiners and hope to win what we need to win. #Basta

Thank you DC government for saving us all a bunch of money!

Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
The local politicians who run Washington, D.C. (poorly) know a windfall when they see it. When asked to give us a price for holding a great celebratory military parade, they wanted a number so ridiculously high that I cancelled it. Never let someone hold you up! I will instead...

The asymmetries between the parties in who they nominate in swing districts can be explained by one simple difference. Democrats believe in government and governing. Republicans oppose the former and it makes them bad at the latter.

General election voters are not going to like going all in on Cheato. Yet that is the main way to win a Republican primary.

Further, there isn't really a solid target for them to unite against like there is during a presidential year.

Scott Walker's Democratic challenger is now set: Tony Evers, the Superintendent of Public Instruction. Evers has led Walker in past few polls, & WI's recent special elections have been very favorable to Dems. But this will be an expensive race & one of November's biggest prizes.

Almost twice as many people are voting in the Dem primary for Gov in Minnesota than in the GOP primary; and this would be a third term for a Dem.

If you had a clearance you signed an SF-312, a Non Disclosure Agreement. It's required for access. It's a long form and most people don't really know what is.

Aileen @GlzgowlassLaing · 14 Aug 2018

That's an official document from the government. If that's what they are referring to fair enough, but I expect they are referring to a non governmental NDA that Trump has made everyone sign for years.

Shame on @neeratanden for attacking the peaceful gathering of tolerant Hindus in Chicago. Neera is increasingly under the sway of Islamists gaining strength in the Democratic Party. Also, Neera has always had an intense self-hate of her Indian ancestry. She's embarrassed of it.

Pattern in #ALSEN, #PA18 & #OH12: Dems aren't necessarily making huge % strides in hardcore Trump zones. There, it's more a story of pathetic R turnout, which then allows anti-Trump energy in burbs to put Dems in contention.

Yes she is. Also America wasn't "white" until it was invaded. So . We are all still just human beings. Why @gop has such a horrific time dealing with the fact that we have different levels of melanin is beyond understanding and I don't want to understand why they are so racist.

And this is exactly the source of the Trump / GOP / Sessions actions, white fear. Fear that the country controlled by whites will slowly darken until color doesn't matter or the racist base of white is no longer the dominant, but rather one of many cultures who share power.

Last night was a great night for Democrats. Such a squeaker in #OH12, after they spent $5 million, is terrible news for GOP, great candidates won primaries in MI, KS. But November will only be a blue wave if each of us work in the election. Figure out what you can do now.

Carolyn Long had an Emily's List endorsement and Lisa Brown had one from Moms Demand Action before the primary. A lot of groups don't do this. Perhaps we should listen to more women instead of just what the Cook report and the so called experts decide to focus on?

The 'very string showing" in Dem primaries needs to continue thru to the midterms. With Dem voters still under attack, foreign & domestic, how do Dems ensure equal access to ballot box, and fair counts? Just ignoring this isn't working.

I get that Dems have a huge tailwind. But Twitter seems to forget that they have to WIN these races. Coming close doesn't matter. And with attention divided all over on Election Day, it's gonna be harder to generate these media-driven focused special election tailwinds. #oh12

"Media-driven tailwinds," oh that's rich. There's gonna be a lot more attention and actual voting in November. If the Dems come within 1 point of winning a +10 GOP district, they'll win big in Nov. As for actually winning, you must've forgotten the string of dem victories so far.

It's silly. Democrats have flipped like 40 state legislative seats, the Virgninia Democratic party posted several huge wins. Connor Lamb is a House Rep, Doug Jones is a Senator. People just like the "bash the Democrats" narrative.

There may be about 9,000 provisional ballots to be counted in #OH12

-Assume turnout in #OH12 is similar to 2014 general (it looks to be close)
-147,871 provisional ballots were cast statewide in 2014

A close race is pretty disastrous for GOP. And that is what we have.

Frank Luntz @FrankLuntz
Not only did Trump win #OH12 by +11% in 2016, but Republicans have lost a House race there only once (in 1980) since 1938.

A loss tonight would be devastating for the @GOP – it should not be this close.

Ronald Brownstein @RonBrownstein
The conundrum: attack on @KingJames is indicative of exactly how Trump hopes to win districts like #OH12: use culture/race to turn out more blue-collar/rural/evangelical. But it also captures exactly why he has to go there: his tone & style repels too many white-collar whites Saw Mission Impossible: Fallout, which had lots of moments of entertainment. But the plot made no sense at all. These movies cost hundreds of millions: invest a lot in the screenplay.

Let's see what it is after @BetoORourke's tour of Texas this month.

Greg Sargent @ThePlumLineGS
New Quinnipiac poll finds Ted Cruz leading Beto O'Rourke by 6 points, 49-43.

That's down from 11 points, 50-39, in May.

Senator Susan Collins, a Maine Republican who has at times challenged the president, said that at first she did not know what to expect.

But she and Ms. Trump forged a closer working relationship over the administration's efforts to overhaul the tax code, and Ms. Collins found in Ms. Trump what many Republicans most desire: a direct line to a president sometimes at odds with his own party.

And so Ms. Trump has delivered one of the few things she can uniquely accomplish in Washington: Riding in a car together one day, she handed Ms. Collins a phone. The president was on the line.

I believe this November we can win the House and the Senate (and no more free ride Trump appointments) and win Governorships across this country so that redistricting and so much more would be safe. We could start to end the insanity and brutality of the Trump regime.

I think this is a reaction to the court appointed auditors, the harrowing story of a 6 year old ordered to sign a document acknowledging fault in a horrific sexual assault. Trump sees the immigration issue slipping away and he is trying to refocus on his core talking points.

Blank Slate @blankslate2017 · 29 Jul 2018
But Trump will be unable to get much traction unless he quickly rescinds the aggressive detention policies, releases all the kids and reunites families, implements 'catch and release'. Then after a month he might be able to resuscitate his agenda.

He's testing whether a nice guy approach works in a smashmouth political climate. Whether gun control can resonate in a heavily armed state. Whether "build-the-wall" backfires along the border. Can a guy who looks and talks like a Kennedy win in Texas?

How revealing you celebrate Jackson's policy of removing Indians,which led to the Trail of Tears & the death of thousands of people who lived here at least 15,000 years before Europeans.

Josh Barro @jbarro · 25 Jul 2018

If he's doing it because he's scared of Beto, that's a big strategic mistake. Cruz is ahead. Even if he thinks he can win the debates on average, why take the risk?

10 2 8

Neera Tanden @neeratanden

Because he's not actually ahead. When Beto moves to 90% name id, Cruz knows he will be behind. If he's not already.

But 5 debates would push Beto to 90% faster than without them. So this seems to be a calculated risk, which may be a reasonable decision. But I think Cruz is thinking solely in terms of debate points, not larger atmospherics. He could "win" the majority, but lose the perception.

You see the adverse incentive problem here right? If we think we can make money off an incursion, we'll do it? that's a serious policy/messaging/moral problem for our foreign policy I think

We have a giant deficit. They have a lot of oil. Most Americans would choose not [illegible] engage in the world because of that deficit. If we want to continue to engage in the world, gestures like having oil rich countries partially pay us back doesn't seem crazy to me.

We should not confuse Trump's ability to sway a GOP primary with his ability to sway the country, a state or a congressional district. Just ask Senator Jones and Representative Lamb

Eric Bradner @ericbradner

Trump's endorsement in the past has generally been ignored by voters (AL-Sen), come late (Arrington over Sanford) or only backed up what was happening anyway (Roby).

Do you think Ralph Northam should not have been criticized over his statements on sanctuary for undocumented immigrants and Medicaid expansion?

It seems that criticism has made him a stronger Governor.

than a week before he won Virginia's gubernatorial election last November in an xpected landslide, Gov. Ralph Northam was asked by Norfolk TV station WAVY if he ld sign a bill to ban sanctuary cities in Virginia. "If that bill comes to my desk, I sure
," Northam said, despite having cast a tie-breaking vote to stop that from happening year. "I've always been opposed to sanctuary cities."

tham was promptly blasted for throwing undocumented people under the bus in the of a racist campaign by Republican Ed Gillespie tying undocumented igrants to MS-13. The progressive group Democracy for America immediately ounced that it would stop giving "direct aid" to Northam's campaign, and when tham won, protesters chanting "Sanctuary for all!" disrupted his victory speech.

pears that Northam took note. On Monday night, Northam vetoed a bill that rowly passed both chambers of the Virginia legislature which would have done just
. The one-sentence bill said simply: "No locality shall adopt any ordinance, cedure, or policy that restricts the enforcement of federal immigration laws."

This will force Dems to oppose a reckless remedy to the avoidable problem Trump himself created with his own universally opposed unilateral policy. A policy Putin may have ordered.

You think it makes sense to equate the actions of Wikileaks/Assange to those of a nation-state? To prosecute them as if they were would be chilling to press freedom and any meaningful notion of "resistance" that you support so strongly.

"Manners" are a way to keep the disenfranchised in line. The people in power find it rude for those whose rights are abridged to "create a scene." The people in power find rude anything that dares to make them uncomfortable.

The guy who invented partisan extremism is projecting again. What a joke.

Ted Cruz @tedcruz

.@BetoORourke looking to raise even more far-Left $$, yet again calls for impeaching @realDonaldTrump This partisan extremism may resonate great in Hollywood, but it doesn't reflect the views of the vast majority of Texans. #RecklessAndOutOfTouch twitter.com/toddgillman/st…

Do we really think Roger Stone knew about the emails, knew they were coming and didn't tell Trump? Really? And then if he did, how likely was it that Trump, facing the Access Hollywood videotape, wouldn't say: Wikileaks should release its worst dirt on Hillary.

And if that was communicated to the Russians, you can bet former GRU agent Putin has kept evidence of it. And if he has, that would be some pretty great leverage over Trump. Now this is all a theory. A plausible theory. But one that would explain Trump's insane behavior today.

The first day Wikileaks released its emails after 4:30pm on a Friday afternoon. An unusual time to release damaging information. And damaging it was -- it had the self-research document on the Goldman Sachs speech --maybe the worst item in all the emails.

It very much is. In fact, all DNC members from California are members of it, including the ones who have helped push the elimination of superdelegates. This is an area of expertise of mine.

There's a difference between overturning an election that already happened to secure a different outcome (a theoretical possibility of superdelegates) and endorsing for a race that's coming up. This isn't hard.

They're worse than superdelegate, cuz they speak in one voice AS the CA Dem Party,whereas super dels speak only for themselves individually;& they chose to foot stomp & ignore the will of the voters, all 2 million of us, who chose Dianne Feinstein. Their decision is undemocratic.

I don't think it's fair that we create our own domestic problems and then ask other nations to pay for it.

You see the adverse incentive problem here right? If we think we can make money off an incursion, we'll do it? that's a serious policy/messaging/moral problem for our foreign policy I think

If dems can paint this dude as a danger for going after Pre-existing conditions (best line of attack imo, get gives red state dems cover to Vote no paint the Gop as attacking healthcare again.

It probably won't tank this nominee though.

@neeratanden what astounds me [illegible] that people in the media are not aware of one of the basic tenets of Nazism/Fascism: Speak directly to the peopl and eliminate the press. Be your own propaganda. Covering his rallies is spreading propaganda not news.

People need to read Hitler's playbook, Mein Kampf, he spells out the tactic: Speak direct and focus on hate. Hate and sound strong. This is not nuance Fascism anymore, this is the real thing. People read it.

Actually, he did not, in fact, state any such thing from Day 1. He was coyly suggesting that "others say" he should be nominated for the Nobel prize. The only thing he achieved was a photo op with a murderous dictator viewed as a pariah by the rest of the world.

2 questions: Why did everyone fall for this? How would GOP react if a Democratic President made such a fool of himself or herself at the hands of North Korea?

Steve Inskeep @NPRinskeep
North Koreans are ever more clear and insistent, at least in public, that they gave nothing whatever to Trump for his summit and have no plans to give anything anytime soon. 1/x

Maybe if we know where they are being held, they could be liberated by force and returned to a central place for their parents. They would know their own kids.

This is exactly what I said on Tuesday. There will be kabuki theatre. But it will be up to all of us to reject that cynical attempt to deflect and demand that our legislators determine where the nominee is on Roe.

Steven Dennis @StevenTDennis

Trump can't confirm his pick unless he gets votes from either the GOP pro-Roe Senators or Dems who oppose abortion rights. A pickle. So expect a special brand of Washington Kabuki theater to follow - bromides about "balls and strikes" and precious few specifics.

our democray ▪ at stake & that's not hyperbole. putin uses hybrid warfare: traditional warfare + cyber warfare to attack sovereign nations, take over & occupy—eg Georgia.

And even if it were thoroughly investigated and it was found that no one had done anything wrong, they'd still be screeching "optics!" about it for years.

@robertwrighter apparently lives in a world where bankers make loans to people and make no money from the loans. I, however, live in the real world where bankers make loans to a businessmen and both sides profit. Which one of us can do better for the #Resistance?

> Robert Wright @robertwrighter

There was no profit-making relationship between Trump and Anthony Kennedy. And the Code of Conduct for U.S. Judges, as you know, does not cite any relationship an adult child might have with anyone as a reason for [illegible] parent to recuse him/herself.

But it is not enough for me to stand before you tonight and condemn riots. It would be morally irresponsible for me to do that without, at the same time, condemning the contingent,intolerable conditions that exist in our society. These conditions are the things that cause individuals to feel that they have no other alternative than to engage in violent rebellions to get attention. And I must say tonight that a riot is the language of the unheard.

Here's some video of a woman berating @Acosta. This went on for several minutes as many in the crowd cheered her on. As someone who's covered my share of Trump rallies, it feels like 2016 all over again.

More raw votes have now been cast in the 2018 primary than in the 2014 general election in CA-49, CA-45 and CA-39. CA-48 at 99.5% of '14.
CA-49 leading the way, w/votes up 11% (181 to 163k)
Over all, votes cast up 5% over '14 general across the four contested O.C. districts

The Red Hen Restaurant should focus more on cleaning its filthy canopies, doors and windows (badly needs a paint job) rather than refusing to serve a fine person like Sarah Huckabee Sanders. I always had a rule, if a restaurant is dirty on the outside, it is dirty on the inside!

Yesterday, out of curiosity I read Mein Kampf, I found this passage. The perfect description of the Trump and GOP tactics. Yet, when we call them out as the tools of the Fascists, they accuse us of hysteria. Tell me one thing in this list written by Hitler that Trump has not done

The broad masses of a nation are not made up of professors and diplomats. Since these masses have only a poor acquaintance with abstract ideas, their reactions lie more in the domain of the feelings, where the roots of their positive as well as their negative attitudes are implanted. They are susceptible only to a manifestation of strength which comes definitely either from the positive or negative side, but they are never susceptible to any half-hearted attitude that wavers between one pole and the other. The emotional grounds of their attitude furnish the reason for their extraordinary stability. It is always more difficult to fight successfully against Faith than against knowledge. Love is less subject to change than respect. Hatred is more lasting than mere aversion. And the driving force which has brought about the most tremendous revolutions on this earth has never been a body of scientific teaching which has gained power over the masses, but always a devotion which has inspired them, and often a kind of hysteria which has urged them to action.

So this means the child and baby camps will continue?

Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump

We must maintain a Strong Southern Border. We cannot allow our Country to be overrun by illegal immigrants as the Democrats tell their phony stories of sadness and grief, hoping it will help them in the elections. Obama and others had the same pictures, and did nothing about it!

Last I checked, Rep. John Carter wasn't a child molester.

He did vote for the farm bill that takes away food aid from tens of thousands of poor children though. So there's that.

Someone seriously needs to look into the financing behind the New York Times to see if its reporting is being compromised. There's been way too much of this to be a coincidence.

The New York Times continues to try to find some equivalency that doesn't exist. Swear words are a non-story. Separating kids from their children is the worst humanitarian crisis many Americans have ever witnessed on our own soil. Shame on the New York Times. Badly done.

We have thousands of journalists in this country and we still don't have any pictures of girls or babies from these camps. How is that possible? This country thrives on a free press.

Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
Democrats are the problem. They don't care about crime and want illegal immigrants, no matter how bad they may be, to pour into and infest our Country, like MS-13. They can't win on their terrible policies, so they view them as potential voters!

Perhaps the best way to celebrate Fathers Day is to stop a policy that is ripping children from their dads at the border.

My life changed the day I became a father. Liza, Charlie, and Sam are my highest priority. Wishing all of the dads out there a happy early #FathersDay @SpeakerRyan I'm a dad as well, to two awesome daughters. I'm also an ordained Christian Minister, and I will be spending Father's Day speaking out about other Dad's having their children taken from them by the US Gov. Too bad you, Speaker Ryan, will not be doing the same.

If #Comey didn't exonerate Hillary in a press conference against FBI and DOJ protocols and the DNC didn't actively support her during the primaries, Bernie may be POTUS right now.

After #MeToo and all the scandals, you're still defending the Clintons. Outrageous!

Everyone is going to interpret this as a pro-Trump message; but I think there's something else at play: Trump has unleashed anti-incumbency within the GOP. More challengers win against GOP incumbents than against Dem incumbents

Phil Mattingly @Phil_Mattingly
.@CNN projects GOP Rep. Mark Sanford will NOT finish first in the GOP primary for his House seat tonight in the South Carolina 1st District.

The best Sanford can hope for is to make a runoff election.

This guy has actually hurt lots of working class people. His trade war may do that event more. He can talk about helping workers but he will have a record of the opposite- like trying to take their health care away.

Ronald Brownstein @RonBrownstein
This is how Trump in 18/20 will frame his shattering of international alliances & protectionist spasms. There could be a big working-class audience for that case. But will white-collar, more globally-oriented, voters accept it & will Ds pursue them by defending trade & alliance? twitter.com/kayleighmcenan…

There really is room for a very tough lefty critique of how the left has thought about recent history. A book brutalizing the left's romanticization of the past while challenging the left to never sweep race and gender under the rug again would be very useful and necessary.

Similar with US-NK Summit. North Korea can say really anything -- the issue is actual steps of verification for what they say. And proving out those steps. Which we won't know for a long time. Can the media accurately report that? I have my doubt, but I hope I'm wrong.

There's a pattern of North Koreans basically doing a deal with the US in the early part of a presidency, then unraveling it in the second term, when the US president is weaker. They are always on a longer time horizon than we are.

This US-North Korea Summit will be a test for the US media. It's incredibly difficult for media to properly cover a live event where actual impact isn't known for weeks. CA primaries are a good ex; their immediate analysis was just wrong because votes aren't tallied for weeks.

It's simpler than that. There has been absolutely no real effort made to lay the groundwork for 'denuclearization'. Kim isn't giving up his weapons. Any media coverage which enables Trump to define down the long-standing demands that NK not have nukes is terrible analysis.

In short, Trump was pretty deal-hungry before (hence having a summit with almost zero concessions) and now he's even more deal-hungry. Suboptimal

> Richard N. Haass @RichardHaass
> The unraveling of G-7 summit works in NK's favor as @realDonaldTrump will not want to bust up 2 summits in a row lest people conclude he is the problem. Increases incentive for Kim to up his asks and limit his compromises and for Trump to do the opposite. Hardly the ideal context

You do realize there's a difference between voting for a party and being its leader. A Democratic President is also leader of the party. It's not unreasonable for people to ask that the leader of the party be a Democrat. You don't need to ask. But others can.

I've never seen anything quite like it: so far in 2018 Dem primaries w/ at least one woman, one man & no incumbent on the ballot, women have won the most votes 59/84 times (70%).

I'm just sick and tired of political pundits who have been bending over backwards to explain their addiction to Bernie and the "white working class" and ignoring the women and minorities who are the nucleus & the backbone of the #resistance.

Maybe folks writing entire articles on the turnout rates of Dems v. GOP should wait til all the votes are counted before doing so. Call me crazy.

Somehow, I'm surprised every year by how many votes are left in California. Appx. 1/3 left in Orange and San Diego Counties, per county estimates.

Have you read his book or just heard people complaining about it. I wanted Hillary to win as well but after reading Comeys book I came away thinking there were no good options. When you read [illegible] all it doesn't come off as sanctimonious.

One of the things I have done when training folks for electoral work is ask them why they are Democrats. The emotions are deep and heartfelt. I so wish we would get more of those stories out there of Democrats saying why they are Democrats. Not the caricatures we get.

No, I'm all for critical feedback. (And I should know that thinking out loud on Twitter is risky.) What I really would like to see are initial 2014 numbers, to see how much of a swing it is on an apples/apples basis. But those aren't so easy to find.

Isn't primary turnout a bad way to make predictions about the general election (regardless of mail-in stuff)?

David Leonhardt @DLeonhardt · 6 Jun 2018

I think there are separate questions: Is primary turnout a good predictor? (Lots of people think so.) Are the current breakdowns the right thing to look at? (Lots of people are skeptical.)
